Diversity and Inclusion

Strategic Plan

Maryland Action Coalition

Introduction

Nursing represents the largest sector of the health profession with over three million registered nurses across the nation. What role can and will nursing assume in meeting the increasing demand of an older, more diverse population for health care services?

The demands on our health care system are compounding exponentially. While no one single group will be the majority, in the next 25 years, it is hypothesized that “minority” populations will become the majority in the United States. Considering this demographic shift, there is no doubt that nurses will need to play a key role in delivering better-integrated, patient centered health care.

Diversity and inclusion represent a broad range of personal, social, environmental, organizational and societal cultures. Thus, understanding these cultures and working through the spectrum of differences to deliver quality healthcare is essential to the profession and the nation.

Maryland Action Coalition

Recognizing that diversity and inclusion in the nursing workforce will continue to play a vital role in improving healthcare access, plus minimizing disparities and improving patient outcomes, the Maryland Action Coalition is developing a strategic plan to address these issues.
An environmental scan and consultation with various stakeholders revealed that while progress has been made in some areas of Maryland, there is still work to be done. Multiple organizations have focused on increasing the diversity of students and employees to reflect current regional demographics. This work has resulted in significant gains in minority representation. These gains must be sustained and new goals need to be set for further increases to meet future demands.

As diversity increases in our educational and healthcare sectors, it is important to recognize the need to purposefully develop an inclusive environment where differing viewpoints, cultural norms, and interpretations are welcomed and considered in shaping the work of organizations.

With these goals in mind, the Maryland Action Coalition has proposed the following strategic plan to guide educational and workplace initiatives. Schools, organizations and worksites can adopt all or some of the goals. The annual 2018 summit meeting of the MDAC will provide a venue for the reporting of progress on the goals and initiatives.

The MDAC will establish a Diversity and Inclusion Committee that will provide oversight and facilitate the following strategic initiatives. This committee will report on progress at the annual MDAC summit in order to disseminate work in progress and outcomes.
